AGENDA ITEM: Report on the Legislative Breakfast
Legislative Breakfast: Lead
Follow Up
Deborah Reed
Mark Draper
Jason Ellingson

Notes: Reed shared photos of our posters at the Legislative Breakfast held on January 16th in Des Moines. Draper, who was also in attendance at the event, gave a summary of the breakfast, saying that the legislators were very interested in the topics presented. Dave Tilly said that the conversations in the room were good, and that all the right leaders were in attendance. Reed thanked Council members for inviting their legislators to attend the event and asked that members please thank their legislators for attending.

AGENDA ITEM: Update on IRRC Initiatives
ELL Family Resources: Lead
Follow Up
Priscilla Polehna
Melissa Potter
Sandy Schmitz
Deborah Reed

Notes: Priscilla Polehna spoke about the review of ELL resources and that the original list has been narrowed down to the final, best resources. Facilitation guides are being developed to aid the professionals that will be teaching parents how to use the websites. Polehna spoke about how the guides will be piloted with ELL professionals before they are available to districts. The timeline for completion is this spring.

Melissa Potter showed the new design and organization of the IRRC website. Potter described the changes as necessary to give better ease of navigation and access to the materials. Potter also shared data regarding the increase of visitors to the site and social media engagement rates.
Sandy Schmitz asked Tilly to discuss the progression of the Intensive Summer Reading Rules. Tilly explained that the rules have now passed through the second round of the Administrative Rules Committee and have been fully enacted.

Reed gave an update on the Summer Study Pilot. She shared a chart with the number of districts that have submitted a letter of support and the number of groups of 15 students by AEA. The schedule of the required professional development is being created to ensure that teachers involved in the ISRP study are trained in their randomly assigned condition. Reed asked for feedback from the Council on whether it makes sense to combine smaller groups of teachers from multiple AEAs into one professional development session, and pay teacher travel. Council members agreed that combining smaller groups of teachers from multiple AEAs was an efficient and reasonable approach to providing the professional development.
